Freight Rates

Railroads are getting out information to fight one of the worst evils that exists in the retail trade today. That of passing the buck to the other fellow for existing prices. A favorite one is to charge the railroads with the responsibility of the high costs of small items on which the freight charges are in reality a small matter. It is true that in large articles such as automobiles and things of similar weight the freight cost is to be taken into consideration but not so with suits and things of similar weight.

In a bulletin recently issued by the Santa Fe System Lines, the following pertinent facts are set forth.

"Merchants pay freight on shipments weighing many hundred pounds, several tons, or comprising carload lots on the basis of the rate per hundred pounds, several tons, are so impressed with the amount paid on such quantities as to seldom think of the freight charge from the standpoint of the individual selling unit.

"As a result is assumed and customers are sometimes told, that the freight paid greatly enhances the prices charged. This is particularly true of articles of clothing and of household use. There is no intention to mislead, but the customer goes away with (Continued on page 4)

EASTERN COLD WAVE BREAKS

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The weather was not quite so cold today. The temperature in Chicago tonight stood at about 15 degrees above zero and there had been a corresponding moderation throughout the country.

Chicago's winter sport continued to consist of trying to keep warm. Lodging houses were crowded. The Salvation Army reported scores of jobless men could not be accommodated and appealed to the municipal relief agencies for help.

More than 100 fire alarms were turned in during the day. Overheated furnaces and stoves were responsible for most of the fires. The downtown district was filled with smoke during the early morning hours when a $20,000 printing establishment burned. Street car traffic was seriously interrupted while firemen fought the flames.

Cloudy weather spread over much of the country and snow was threatening tonight. Green Bay, Wis., was the coldest place on the map last night, with 8 degrees below zero.

Pittsburgh and some points in Pennsylvania reported snow falling.

The weather bureau promised the temperature would continue to rise slowly but warned there is no normal temperature in immediate prospect.

Ray Pleads Guilty

The sentence of Marion A. Ray of Walnut Creek, and former man for Charles H. Schwartz in the chemist's Walnut Creek silk plant, when Schwartz killed himself, has been deferred until January 5 by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass. Ray was arrested last week by county prohibition officers who found a still in operation at his home. He pleaded guilty to his charges.

Woman Burned to Death When Car
and Train Collide

A woman was burned to death early last night when the car in which she was riding burst into flames after being wrecked by a collision with a Southern Pacific electric train. Mrs. F. C. Duerr, 2761 Sixty-eighth avenue, Oakland, was riding in the rear seat of an automobile, which was being driven by Frank Bronson, 534 Joaquin street, Oakland, along Sixty-eighth avenue, when the car was overturned by the impact of the train, pinning Mrs. Duerr in the tonneau, and causing the car's fuel tank to burst into flames.

The fire department was immediately summoned, and the train crew endeavored to extricate the woman, but when the flames were extinguished, Mrs. Duerr was found dead from burns. Bronson was thrown uninjured from the car.

Hog Cholera Brings Big Damage Suit

Suit has been filed in the Superior Court against Frank, Louis, and George Gill by Frank J. Dutra, asking judgment of $5,910, and charging that the defendants sold him hogs that had been exposed to cholera infection and that as a result animals on his ranch became infected with the disease.

The plaintiff claims that the hogs were sold under the expressed condition that they were in good health and in a marketable condition. He purchased them for $210 on November 6. The fact that hogs on the defendant's ranch had died of cholera and that those which had been sold had been exposed was concealed from Dutra. He claims that animals worth $600 died and that it will require $5,000 to rid his land of the germs.

U. S. ANSWER TO ARMS PARLYBID EXPECTED SOON

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—America's participation in the League of Nations' preparatory arms conference will be announced by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg within the next forty-eight hours, it was expected in official circles here tonight.

Kellogg returned from St. Paul prepared to take up the final draft of plans at the call of the President.

President Coolidge has thoroughly discussed the need of an appropriation to send the American delegates to Geneva in February. It was announced at the White House and has yet to hear a syllable of protest from any of the senators and representatives with whom he has conferred.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Representative Madden of Illinois, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, are among the congressional leaders whose advice and cooperation have been sought by the President in private conference.

Borah has announced that he favors America's entry into the preparatory conference "upon the terms which the President will set forth."

Clyde Inn Manager
Released On Bail

Charles I. Berney, ex-manager of the Clyde Inn was arrested last night in Fruitvale, and is out on $500 bail to insure his appearance in the court of Justice of the Peace Frank Glass. Berney was arrested by Clyde Laird, chief of the county prohibition squad, on a warrant charging him with the non-payment of wages to his employees. The complaint was signed by Lee On, Chinese cook, who claims that $416 is due him. Three musicians and a waiter also claim back wages.

It is expected that this case will decide whether or not a man can be jailed for debt and failure to pay wages as soon as the case is tried. No date has been set for the trial.

JOHNSTON AND JUSTICE GLASS IN VERBAL TILT

A near battle resulted in the Martinez court yesterday between Justice of the Peace Frank L. Glass and T. D. Johnston, former assemblyman of this district and former district attorney and resident of Richmond.

Johnson charged that high hand methods were in vogue at that court and that the fines were named by the district attorney.

Adding further, Johnston told his Honor that only the fact that the court was in session kept him from saying what he wanted.

Thereupon Judge Glass wrathfully arose and told Johnston that court "was adjourned" and that he wouldn't use his gray hairs to protect any body and that he was ready to start now on any other time.

Johnson, is then said to have told the judge what would happen if his honor should accidentally get in the way of his, Johnson's, fist.

The party became all the merrier and the argument waxed (Continued to page 4)

Housing Problem
Hits Martinez as Clyde Inn Closes

A serious housing problem is being confronted by the 100 or more people who were boarding at Clyde Inn, as a result of the raid which was conducted last week, and which resulted in the closing of the hotel. Apartments and houses are at a premium in or near Martinez, and prominent citizens and officials of industries there, are casting about for responsible persons who might be interested in an effort to bring about the re-opening of the Clyde Inn to accommodate employees and their families.

Officers of the Clyde Inn stated that if the proper responsible parties are interested in the project it is hoped that the county authorities will consent to the opening of the Inn under bond, if necessary, in order to relieve the housing situation and provide living quarters for workmen.

District Attorney A. B. Tinning states in reply to that statement that neither he nor his office will consent to any compromise, and actions in this case will be no different than any other.

PRINCIPALS IN SHOOTING CASE
ILLEGALLY WED

Investigation into the shooting which resulted in the wounding of W. G. Latimer, wealthy Oakland laundry owner, by Mrs. Luisa A. Godbier, 3777 Manila avenue, Oakland, show that the couple, who are both married, eloped last February 5, and were married by Rev. Charles A. Owen of the San Rafael Methodist Episcopal church, under the assumed names of Louise Haley of Stockton, and Richard W. Latimer of Hanford. Latimer admitted the facts to Inspectors Edward O'Connell and J. R. C. McDonald yesterday. He claims however, that the marriage was the result of "a drinking party" and that both of them had been drinking and did not know what they were doing. Marin records show that a marriage license was issued to the couple.

Latimer is in the Merritt hospital in Oakland suffering from wounds which he received during an argument with Mrs. Godbier, when she attempted to commit suicide. Mrs. Godbier is held in the county jail, she being the one who stated that Latimer and she are guilty of bigamy.

Monday's shooting came as the aftermath of a friendship admitted by the couple to have extended over 10 years. District Attorney Greer states that as most of the evidence in the case is in Marin county, he thinks the authorities there should prosecute the case and that he will not file formal charges until he hears their determination.

Roy V. Davis, leader of the movement in 1921, will be on hand to greet the bridge officials on New Year's Eve. This opening will just be an informal one, for the formal opening of the huge structure will be held Washington's birthday, when both roads leading to both entrances to the bridge will have been completed.

Contractors used 900,000 feet of lumber, 82,428 sacks of cement, and over a million pounds of reinforcing steel and 2028 wooden piles for false work in building the span.

SAID TO COME FROM JAPAN

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Dec. 29.—The most sweeping quarantine order in recent California history came from Governor Richardson and the state department of agriculture today when an embargo was announced on all stone and deciduous fruit trees from 19 eastern states and the District of Columbia to prevent an invasion of the destructive Oriental Fruit moth.

Announcing that Governor Richardson has signed the embargo order agriculture director George H. Heck said this was considered imperative in protection of California's fruit industry due to the spread of the Asiatic pest in Eastern States.

The Oriental fruit moth has been in America for a comparatively short period but its spread has been rapid in that time said Heck. Agriculture experts are of the opinion that the pest was first brought to this continent with a shipment of flowering cherry trees sent by the Empress of Japan to Mrs. William Howard Taft while Taft was president.

McClintock Taken Back to Jail For Parole Violation

People have their preferences, and those of B. C. McClintock, Richmond veterinary surgeon, are a little unusual. McClintock was paroled from the County Jail on December 23rd on good behavior. On Monday night he was found in an intoxicated condition at the Di Betta Drug store, Main and Castro streets, Martinez and was carted back to the county jail for violating his parole.

McClintock was taken to Martinez on November 2, to serve 90 days in jail for drunkenness, and evidently has found out that the jail is not a bad place to spend one's time after all. Anyway, he is back.

Rev. Charles Aked would like to see criminals removed from the pedestal upon which weak-minded men and women place them. He would break up the practice of women sending flowers to murders, and kissing them. But we do not see how it can be done. We have no law to keep people from making fools of themselves, and if there were such a law we do not think it would be constitutional. Some Pages from American History

By VICTOR MORGAN

COLUMBUS' LAST VOYAGES

The spring and summer of 1495 were probably the happiest in the life of Christopher Columbus, the explorer who discovered America while searching for a water route to India and the Far East.

Everyone honored him. In September he started again for his islands (these islands we know as the West Indies.)

But his good fortune forsook him. He found the new country as colonists at war with one another and the natives far from friendly.

Pestilence and disease came. Columbus himself was ill.

His brother, Bartholomew, arrived from Spain and was looked upon as an upstart.

When Christopher returned to Spain in 1496, there was need of more money and colonists. Someone suggested that criminals be transported.

No longer was Columbus a hero. He made his third voyage in 1498, having lost most of the prestige that had been his. On this trip he skirted South America.

Nevis, the little island on which Alexander Hamilton was born hundreds of years later was discovered.

At length those at home in Spain became convinced that Columbus was no fit ruler for the new lands and they sent over a new judge, Bobadilla. It was unfortunate that he arrived just after the execution of seven Spaniards. The gallows was still standing in position and Bobadilla had the Columbus brothers arrested and put in irons. He did this on scant, one-sided evidence. It is believed.

Back in Spain in disgrace! Under arrest! And although Columbus quickly regained his freedom, he never won back his political influence.

It is amazing that he never became discouraged or lost sight of his original purpose. On his fourth and last voyage, he took with him his fourteen-year-old son Ferdinand.

Columbus never found the strait that he believed led through the mainland into the Indian ocean. He came back to Spain a broken-hearted and disappointed old man. No longer a hero, no longer a friend of royalty was he! He had not found his route to India. The gold he had expected to unearth was not in his hand. He died in 1504.

But all this time, other countries and other explorers had roamed idle. Tomorrow: John Cabot puts out to sea.

THROTTLING THE DEMON THAT GOADS TO CRIME

World-Wide System of Records Enables New York Police to Strike at One of Chief Forces Behind National Crime Wave.

THE recent formation of a National Crime Commission, and the announcement that the Commission's first step will be to compile adequate records for the purpose of presenting a clear and undistorted picture of criminal activities in the United States, has crystallized the public's vague and long-felt alarm into positive action that promises relief.

Few are aware, however, that for the last four and a half years there has existed in this country an organization which has done for one form of criminal activity a work of much the same nature as that which the new National Crime Commission is now setting out to do for the whole field.

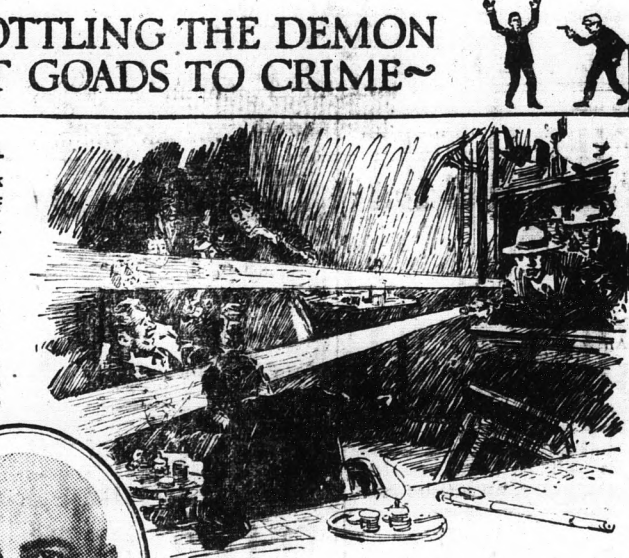

A Newgate Calendar

Along the walls of a large room on the second floor of the Police Headquarters Building in New York City are ranged long lines of tall steel cabinets made up of row upon row of narrow drawers filled with data sheets. Pasted on the data sheets are photographs and finger prints of men and women which have been sent to New York from nearly all the nations of America and Europe. The data reads like a modern edition of the Newgate Calendar.

Who are these people of the photographs and finger prints? The answer is given by the actions of a group of men as they gather before a darkened building in lower New York and then begin to mount the fire escape.

The Demon's Lair

At the sixth floor the men halt for a low-toned conference. A dim light struggles through the heavily curtained window—and with the light comes a pungent odor far different from the ordinary stinks of the city. The word is given; and, as the glass is shattered by the butt of an automatic, the five plain clothes men hurt themselves into the room which at the first sound of the shattering of the glass the inmates have plunged into total darkness.

Through the darkness that is heavy with the same pungent odor that seeped through the window, stab the long beams of the detectives' flashlights. They illumine a scene of seething confusion. Men and women struggle madly to reach the door. On a low stand of teak lies an overturned lamp. On the floor and on the couches lie long pipes with weld carvings and tiny bowls.

Back at Headquarters

Back in the room at Police Headquarters the next morning the photographs of the men and women taken in the raid are compared with those in the steel cabinets. Two of the men have just arrived from Italy. One of the women has recently come from Buenos Aires.

But their photographs are in the cabinets, for this is the headquarters of the Narcotic Bureau of the New York Police Department and of its ally, the Narcotic Criminal Interagency Identification Bureau, established by New York's Police Commissioner, Richard E. Enright, in line with the recommendations of the International Police Conference, and whose branches are in most of the larger cities of the two white-inhabited continents.

"Seven hundred cities," says Dr. Carleton Simon, Chief of the Bureau, "send us photographs, records, and fingerprints of criminal drug addicts. As a result, our statistics on narcoticism and our records of individuals form the most complete and extensive collection of data on the drug evil that has ever been compiled.

"Over 16,000 narcotic violators have passed through this office in the last four and a half years. Approximately 12,000 of these had criminal records. Wherever the cesspool of crime is found opium, cocaine, and heroin contribute their quota of contamination. Wherever drug addiction flourishes vice, licentiousness, depravity and madness are present. Our records prove that drugs are at the root of a large proportion of the crime in the United States."

Thinning the Ranks of Crime

The work of the Narcotic Bureau in rounding up drug addicts, and in damping the spread of the evil, is adding New York City of thousands of criminals and at the same time is checking the development of potential lawbreakers who otherwise would surely add themselves to the ranks of those who live by robbery, fraud and murder.

The 125,000 finger prints and the 25,000 photographs which have been gathered by the Narcotic Criminal Interagency Identification Bureau play a leading part in contributing to the efficiency of the Narcotic Bureau by giving a complete picture of narcotic activities in 34 nations, and by making available the records of old offenders so that they may receive their just deserts at the hands of the courts. The value of the statistics on drug addiction and the other records gathered by the Narcotic Criminal Interagency Identification Bureau augurs well for the value of the undertaking which the National Crime Commission is embarking upon.

On Christmas day according to dispatches from Constantinople Achram assembled his wives to a gala banquet to celebrate his last farewell. All were dressed in gorgeous costumes and the dinner was served with great oriental magnificence.

Water Connections Show Big Increase

Estimates given out by the East Bay Water Company show a gain of more than 11 per cent on new buildings which were started in Richmond and surrounding districts. A total of 615 new constructions were started during the year 1925.

As water must be on the ground before work can start, this estimate must be correct, for there were 615 services made during the year. Compared with last year, there are now 5902 service connections in Richmond, with 5287 at the beginning of the year.

Trade Conflict in Latin America Discussed by U. S. Bureau Head

By Dr. Julius Klein, director of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce.

"The growing Latin American demand for such basic competitive items as the foregoing not only indicates the intrinsic possibilities for these particular lines of the high grade products which the American manufacturer is singularly well equipped to supply, but is a striking indication of the improving standards of living and purchasing power of the Latin American countries. During 1924 Argentina purchased automobiles valued at about $16,000,000, most of which came from the United States. This was more than three times the value of her automobile imports in 1913. The development of motion picture, radio, and calculating machine sales have advanced at even a higher rate of increase during the last 10 years, and the United States has supplied most of these imports.

"In 1913 we sold in Latin America automobiles valued at $1,652,000. In 1924 our total automobile sales to Latin America aggregated $55,654,000. In 1913 we sold motion pictures valued at $91,000. In 1924 our sales of this commodity had advanced to $1,654,000 with corresponding increases in the large 'invisible' trade returns to us in the shape of royalties. Similarly our sales of typewriters have advanced during this 10 year period from $1,646,000 to $2,823,000 and in calculating machines from $115,000 to $755,000. Our advance in sales of such commodities as the foregoing indicate that our progress in Latin America is being made more by the creation of new markets than by the diversion of previously existing markets to us at the expense of Europe. These are items in which we were already dominant before the war, in so far as such trade existed at all.

"American manufacturers and exporters occasionally express concern over competition from the development of domestic industries in Latin American local shoe factories, machine shops, textile plants, flour and cement mills, etc. In some lines, such as footwear, this has become a formidable obstacle, but as a rule these developments represent decidedly favorable aspects not only in their requirements for building materials, machinery, supplies and equipment, but especially in the elevation of standards of living, the increase in consumer purchasing power, and the creation of expanded markets for high grade specialties produced in the United States.

"European trade rivalry, however, is becoming more formidable. Even in those commodity lines in which we enjoy the advantage of technical superiority or low unit cost, we have not intensified competition more recently and there is plenty of evidence that this will persist and must be met if our manufacturers are to retain their proper place in these markets.

"Let us first review some of the more general evidence of the competitive intent of Europe in Latin America, passing on subsequently to actual cases and characteristic practices. There is admittedly an intended commercial significance to the recent visits of European royal globe-trotters to that part of the world. Such tours of titled 'trade ambassadors' materially assist the ground-work of international relationships, especially when supplemented by dexterous publicity; but there is naturally some 'mild curiosity' as to the permanence of any trade gains thus spectacularly attained. In meeting such efforts, while we cannot exhibit the royal pageantry, we have both distinguished public men and advertising genius with which we might well make our country better known in the Republics of the South.

"The past year has witnessed the visits of both private and semi-official European trade missions to various countries in Latin America. These are being preceded and followed up by floods of propaganda literature, Spanish and Portuguese trade reviews, periodicals, pamphlets, etc. from England, Germany and Italy. Canada is also contributing a Spanish trade review. These commercial propagandist efforts are by no means discredited. In fact, they are in many instances inferior imitations of some highly effective foreign advertising done by American agencies.

"To promote British trade in South America, a new organization known as the Anglo-South American Association, has just been formed in London. The objects of this organization are to win back lost trade in South American markets, to employ British capital loaned in that territory to the advantage of affiliated British industrial and commercial interests, and to call the attention of British exporters to new and undeveloped markets.

"We must not be diverted by huggies raised in some discussions of the subject. While the Locarno settlement will doubtless increase the productive capacity of European industry with some reactions unfavorable to our export markets in competitive areas, the net results will tend to prove advantageous rather than the contrary.

"Increasing general stability in the economic processes of Europe will increase general purchasing power with contingent benefits for the Latin American producers of raw materials and consequently for our manufactured exports to the southern markets. Meantime, currency stabilization and budgetary reforms are on the one hand improving Europe's ability to buy Latin American products, and on the other raising European costs of production, and thereby greatly modify the adverse price factor which we have had to meet in the Latin American markets during the past few years.

"There are those who, seemingly placing undue emphasis on the merchandise factor in international balance, picture our trade development as severely circumscribed in Latin America by reason of tariff barriers we have raised against certain agricultural products which are important export items of the Latin Republics. Analysis of the import figures, however, relieves this misapprehension. (More Tomorrow)

The Golden Bed Is Screen Feature At the Richmond

The Richmond Theatre offers as its feature screen attraction today and tomorrow Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Golden Bed", featuring Irene Rich, Rod La Rocque and Vera Reynolds, which was adapted from Wallace Irwin's novel, which ran serially in Pictorial Review under the title of "Tomorrow's Bread".

"The Golden Bed" is a modern society drama in which is traced the human wreckage left by a woman who plays with men for the fascination of the game. After wrecking several lives, her own is ruined. The hero finds happiness with her sister.

The wedding scene; the fight between the two noblemen in the Alps; the Candy Ball; the discovery of Flora by Admah in the arms of another; the gorgeous costumes and the acting, are typically DeMille, and like all his former productions were, a treat for the eye.

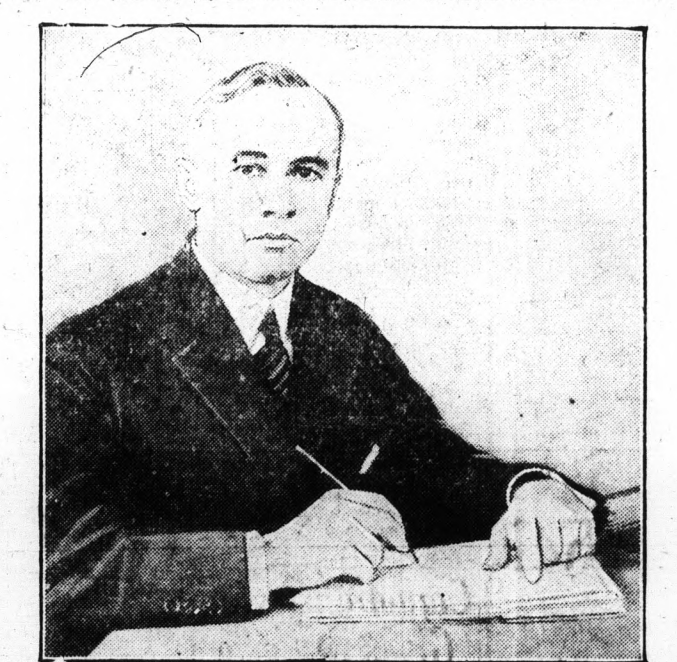

Irene Rich, as Flora Lee Peake; Rod La Rocque, as Admah Holtz; and Vera Reynolds, as Margaret Peake, have the best roles of their career.

Other features on the same program include "Hot Doggie", a

Walter Hiers comedy; "Prizma", the screen magazine.

Sixty Nations Follow Ideals of American Humanitarian Leader

Representatives of more than sixty countries throughout the civilized world, including in their number followers of practically every major religious faith, meeting in Stockholm, Sweden, have voted to adopt the plans of Charles V. Vickrey, of New York, General Secretary of the Near East Relief in the promotion of international Golden Rule Sunday on December 6 as an aid to world peace. Organized two years ago by Mr. Vickrey, the Golden Rule Sunday movement has developed strength rapidly. Last year the day was observed

CHARLES V. VICKREY

In fifty-two countries and received the endorsement of President Coolidge and leaders of other nations. The President and members of the diplomatic corps were among the thousand diners who attended the Golden Rule banquet in Washington where the movement for the observance of the day in the United States last year was organized. Though the purpose of Golden Rule Sunday is to aid world peace it is also a humanitarian movement. People are asked to participate in Golden Rule observance by less, homeless, penniless, but none the less potentially leaders of a new Near East."

For almost ten years Mr. Vickrey has devoted himself to humanitarian endeavors in the Near East. His chief interest has been the care of child sufferers of warfare, disorder, and starvation, training them to assume leadership among their people and spread the message of the Golden Rule in a region where the prevailing influences for centuries have been for hatred, ignorance, and discord.

MARION DAVIES STAR IN FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Register another directorial success for Monta Bell!

This sensational young director has turned out the best film of his short career in Marion Davies' "Lights of Old Broadway" a Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which comes to the screen of the California Theatre starting today.

It was not until about a year ago that the picture-goer first heard of young Bell. With the release of "Broadway After Dark" exhibitors, producers and film fans began to inquire who the director was.

The fact is he was a former publicity man of Charlie Chaplin that Harry Rapt saw as a potential film director and gave him a chance. The chance was all he needed and Bell was well on his way to success with the release of his first picture.

Before coming to Hollywood he was the editor of a Washington, D. C., daily newspaper and had been identified with several syndicates that specialized in featured stories. In that capacity he learned what constitutes a successful story.

When he came to Hollywood with Chaplin he was given a chance to assist in the making of "A Woman of Paris" and he made such brilliant suggestions that many critics gave him a large part of the credit for the success of the film.

Then Rapt, who is an associate executive of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, gave him a chance at directing and put up the money out of his own pocket. With the release of the picture he was signed by the studio to direct a number of other films.

"The Lights of Old Broadway" is Carey Wilson's screen version of Laurence Eyre's stage success, "The Merry Wives of Gotham." The cast includes, besides Marion Davies, Conrad Nagel, Charles McHugh, Eleanor Lawson, Frank Currier, Julia Swayne, Gordon Mathew Betz, Wilbur Higby and George K. Arthur.

Other features include "Bachelors' Babies" a Juvenile Comedy; "International News"; Larry Canelo, at the organ.

U. S. Negro to be Commissioned in Liberian Force

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The War Department today granted the request of the Liberian Government to discharge Sergeant Hansen Outley, veteran non-commissioned officer of the Ninth U. S. Cavalry regiment, colored, to enable him to accept a captain's commission in the Liberian Frontier force.

The Liberian Republic, it was learned, maintains a uniformed force of one thousand trained troops that police its frontier on the west coast of Africa, where Sergeant Outley will be detailed for duty.

War Department orders have been issued directing him to proceed from Fort Riley, Kansas, to Washington. Before departing for his new post he will spend an instructional period of ten days in the State Department.

As captain in the Liberian Frontier force, he will receive a salary of sixteen hundred dollars yearly and allowances amounting to nine hundred dollars. The War Department announcement also says he was designated for the appointment because of his outstanding soldierly qualities and after consideration of the merits of other soldiers of high type in the colored regiments of the regular army.

Why are the American people so far ahead?

WHEREVER world-travelers come together, the amazing comforts of Americans are sure to come in for discussion. Why is it that the average American lives like a king?

To be sure, he has more money to spend than any other person in the world, but then he insists on spending it to bring better living to himself and family. Who knows what a subtle, but influential, part advertising plays in putting the American people ahead? Advertising, by showing us new and better things, keeps us from being satisfied with "well enough."

Advertising, by making us want more, wakens the springs of action within us to get more. American advertising is a pretty substantial explanation of American advancement.

Golfers Are Attracted to the South for Link Matches Which Are Scheduled in Near Future

By DAMON RUNYON
Staff Correspondent Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—It is almost with a sense of guilt that your correspondent again mentions the weather, in view of the fact that these lines will be read by subscribers huddled over leaky steam radiators in the far frozen East, but it is really a matter of sartorial news that gentlemen are walking about the streets of Los Angeles in their shirt sleeves.

I am informed that it is a winter fashion that prevails here due to the exigencies of the sunshine in these parts. It is rapidly gaining ground among the elite, but it is what you might call a tough break for the famous golfers of the land who are falling off every incoming train for the two big golf tournaments that start here presently—the $2,500 Long Beach championship and the $10,000 Los Angeles open.

These famous golfers are arriving here equipped with the very latest in golf garb. They are coming in coats, blazers, suits, jackets and what-not, with the sartorial glory which they tee off. They will be greatly disappointed when they discover that coats are not only out of style, but really quite uncomfortable.

The only citizen of Los Angeles who habitually wears a coat at this season of the year is Mr. Dick Scollin, one of the assistant managers of the Hotel Biltmore. Mr. Scollin wears a morning coat, with long spoked tails. I am informed that there is something in the city ordinances of Los Angeles that requires Mr. Scollin to wear this coat that strangers to the city may know that coats are not unknown in Southern California and that everybody could wear them if they desired.

At certain intervals during the day Mr. Scollin is permitted to repair to the park across the way from the Biltmore, hang his coat on the limb of a palm tree, and sit in the shade until he cools off. Then he must resume the coat and return to the Biltmore and exhibit himself to the traveling public.

Mr. Scollin was the only man who knew what ailed Mr. Warren Brown of Chicago when Mr. Brown collapsed weakly in a lily bed in the lobby of the Biltmore today. Mr. Brown is one of my most distinguished contemporaries in the matter of reporting the Alabama-Washington football game, the big golf tournament and the many other sports events that impend hereabouts.

He came in from a brisk walk along Olivis street, and suddenly stumbled over among the lilies. A Mr. Benny Leonard, the retired, but not so very retiring, lightweight champion of the world; Mr. Spike Robinson the local boulevardier; Mr. Joe Benjamin, representing the many art of scrambling ears; Mr. Floyd Fitzsimmons, the celebrated promoter, and other prominent natives and visiting firemen.

They stood about, undecided what to do about Mr. Brown's collapse, until Mr. Scollin rushed forward with his spoked tails flapping furiously. He took one look at Mr. Brown, then motioned the lads to enter a huddle formation while he got out his pocket knife.

It developed that all that was the matter with Mr. Brown was that he still had on fleeced-lined underwear with which he repels the rigors of the breezes off Lake Michigan. It seems that he had had this underwear sewn on him in the early fall, not expecting he would have to remove it until next grass.

Long experience with thoughtless visitors from the frigid zones has taught Mr. Scollin that the only thing necessary is to cut the patient out of his fleeced lining. Mr. Brown quickly recovered, but had a slight relapse when Mr. Pat Shanley of the famous hotel firm of Shanley & Furniss, appeared in one of his characteristic makeups. I would not attempt to here describe even one of Mr. Shanley's makeups, because my readers might think I am seeing things.

Among the famous golfers who arrived today for the golf tournament mentioned above, were MacSmith, Bobby Cruickshank, Al Espinosa, John Novak and John Black, the latter a historic figure in the annals of the pastime. So is MacSmith, for that matter. The $2,600 Long Beach tournament and the $10,000 Los Angeles open, which is the biggest money stake ever offered the golfers, promises to produce plenty of excitement.

In the meantime, the discussion over the sports event immediately at hand, which is the football game Friday between the University of Alabama, and the University of Washington, is growing quite heated. "The Crimson Tide," as the Alabama team is picturesquely termed, may be favorite over the Pacific Coast champions by the time the opening whistle blows such has been the impression it has created on local observers.

In halting the rose-scented ozone of Pasadena, "The Crimson Tide" continued working out today with Mr. "Pop" Warner, coach of Leland Stanford, who used to coach the Carlisle Indians in the days of their gridiron piousness, among the interested onlookers.

Mr. "Pop" Warner, who produced the celebrated Mr. Ernie Nevers this year seemed to think well of Alabama. Mr. "Pop" Warner is resting on the laurel wreaths of a 27-14 victory over his contemporary, Mr. Andy Smith of the University of California.

For five successive years Leland Stanford endured the ignominy of defeats at the hands, and also the feet, of the Californians under Mr. Andy Smith, and then the Leland Stanfordites looked at one another and said, "What is this, anyway? Let's do something about it."

Wherefore they secured the services of Mr. "Pop" Warner, at that time turning out tornadoes in human guise at Pittsburgh. Under his direction Leland Stanford tied California, 20-to-20 last year and won this year.

It was Mr. Andy Smith, now ill in an Eastern hospital who first called attention to Pacific Coast football, along about 1921, when his Californians kicked blazes out of Ohio State by a score of 28 to 0. This was when the redoubtable Brick Muller casually chuckled a forward pass of fifty-six yards.

Army Arranges Sport Schedule

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—An elaborate program of "athletics for all," with emphasis on amateurism rather than professionalism, in army sport has been prepared by War Department experts under the personal supervision of Secretary Dwight F. Davis, and soon will be promulgated to the service.

The program as it stands today would seek to develop the participation of all officers and men in army athletics, while at the same time utilizing the spur of competition to promote contests between rival groups.

The army accepts without question the doctrine of more athletics on the playing field rather than in the bleachers. Every man in the service will be encouraged to take up personally some form of sport.

Recognizing that a certain amount of professionalism must exist in army sports, the department wishes at the same time to develop amateur athletics with a view to participation by individual soldiers in the Olympic games and other national and international amateur contests.

Amateur contests within the service will be held strictly in accordance with accepted collegiate rules so that there will be no question as to the eligibility of the contestants to participate later in civilian meets.

This will leave in the neighborhood of $30,000 for the Shriners' crippled children's hospital.

S. O. No. 1 Five Defeats S. O. No. 2 In Slow Game

In a slow and tedious game that was enlivened once in a while by flashy passwork and one or two long bucket shots, the Standard Oil team No. 1 defeated the Standard Oil No. 2 22-13 last night at the Junior High gymnasium.

The featuring players were Bonham and Hutton. Bonham's long passes were remarkable. Hutton did his share by sinking five buckets. Tillmore for No. 2 did the point making, scoring, but seven points.

Swans Protected Under Treaty With Britain

The 10-year closed season during which swans may not be hunted anywhere in the United States expires December 7, 1926. This restriction was made under the provisions of article 3, of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain enacted for the protection of birds migrating between United States and Canada. The Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, which makes this announcement, says that the Federal law to enforce the treaty also prohibits the taking of migratory birds except as permitted by regulations thereunder promulgated by the President. Therefore, even with the end of the 10-year closed season, it will still be unlawful to kill these birds at any time, until the migratory-bird treaty act regulations are amended to allow the "killing of swans" during a stated open season. An exception will be made for scientific purposes, however, under permit of the Secretary of Agriculture.

El Cerrito Board Of Trustees Have Business Session

A letter from the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. was received by the board of trustees last Monday night, stating that both Berkeley and Richmond telephone service would be installed in the new fire house and city hall and the new Berkeley service would cost $23.25 per month.

After much discussion the members of the board decided to lay the signing of the application over for the new service for one week and to ask the officials of the telephone company to appear before the board next Monday night to explain the high rate asked by the company.

CONTRACT AWARDED

The bid of G. Lavazoni of 19 cents per square foot for sidewalks and 55 cents per linear foot for curbs in front of the new fire house was the lowest and the board awarded the contract.

GARBAGE ORDINANCE

The garbage ordinance providing for the collection of refuse once a week for one family 50 cents per month and that there be not more than 25 gallons of refuse per week on the minimum charge passed its first reading. The ordinance also calls for a penalty of a fine of not less than $10.00 nor more than $50.00 or of imprisonment of not more than 30 days for violation.

This ordinance will be in effect 30 days after its final passage.

BIRD NAMED DRIVER

On the recommendation of fire chief W. A. Hines the trustees appointed A. H. Bird of El Cerrito as truck driver.

The appointment is temporary and will be made permanent when Bird has proven his ability of taking over the fire apparatus.

FIRE ORDINANCE

Fire chief W. A. Hines and city attorney T. M. Carlson will prepare a number of ordinances such as parking near hydrants and running over fire hose which will probably be presented to the board for adoption during the coming month.

MAYOR EXTENDS GREETINGS

Mayor Frank Macdermott extended best wishes to the members of the board and to the citizens of El Cerrito for a happy and prosperous New Year.

S. F. BANDITS ELUDE POLICE IN WILD CHASE

By Universal Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—In making "their getaway" after holding up and robbing a grocery here tonight, two young bandits were halted for speeding by Policeman Cordrey at 18th avenue and Geary streets.

Cordrey called Policeman Dahl to take charge of the young men, intending to return to his post. As Dahl approached the youths drew revolvers and ordered the officers into their machine and then drove off at breakneck speed.

As the machine started up a steep hill the driver shifted gears which distracted the attention of his companion, who was guarding the policeman.

The policeman took advantage of the few moments, drew their revolvers and jumped from the car.

The bandits opened fire. The policeman returned the fire. One of the bandits was heard to scream as the car sped away narrowly missing a street car. The youths are believed to be the men wanted on charges of murder and robbery in this city.

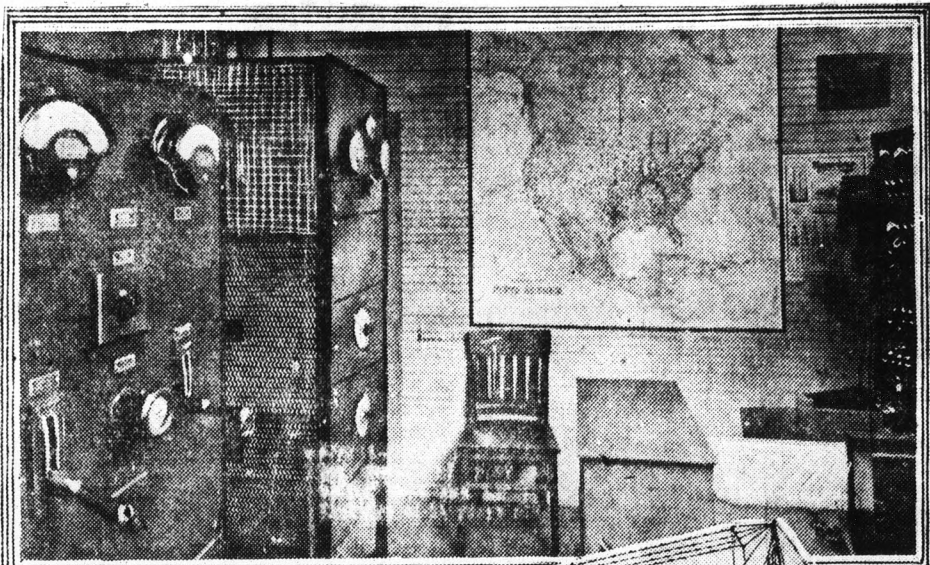

Hoover Censors England for Its Rubber Combine

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A new onslaught upon the British East Indian rubber combine which through monopoly of rubber supplies is extorting seven hundred million dollars in excess profits from American consumers was made by Secretary of Commerce Hoover today.

Hoover declares that if American producers as a whole, skyrocketed their prices as the English combine has done with rubber, Europe would be unable to buy such important necessities of life as wheat and cotton.

Although definitely denying that his statements should be taken "as a threat" Hoover's prominence abroad will cause his statement to be construed as a warning that foreign nations will be absolutely at the mercy of America if a campaign of retaliation is undertaken.

Broadcasting Stations You Have Heard—WFAA

Above: Apparatus room of WFAA, the Dallas News. This adjoins the attractive studio. Below: the antennae boom up on the horizon in an unusual span.

The Dallas News stretches the antennae of its broadcasting station over the top of a city block. This gives it an unusually excellent position in the sky-line.

WFAA has a five hundred watt Western Electric equipment and employs a wave length of 476 meters. Although the Dallas News is an outstanding Texas institution, those who listen to the programs of WFAA are scattered over the whole country and down through Central America. The map which may be seen in the illustration of the apparatus room of WFAA is an appropriate companion of the transmitter because it constantly visualizes the geographical extent of the Dallas News radio circulation.

YOLO COUNTY OFFICIALS IN BOOZE PROBE

Word has just been received from Woodland that some Yolo county officials have strayed from the straight and narrow path and indulged in a "booze party" at which liquor flowed in quantities. However, they remembered their "bringing up" and were "able to walk or drive home."

The grand jury of Woodland summoned nine officials of Yolo county, headed by the district attorney, including the sheriff, game warden, constable, probation officer and three policemen, to answer the accusations hurled against them in reference to their presence at a wine party held more than a year ago.

Idle rumors have been in the air about the party, but the announcement that the grand jury had taken the matter under consideration came as a great surprise. The alleged party was supposed to have been held in the home of Mrs. C. M. Morelli, a resident of Woodland in November, 1924.

Officers quizzed in reference to their presence at the party were: District Attorney George T. Kern, Sheriff J. W. Monroe, Constable Leroy Hillhouse, Game Warden Lee Sinkey, Coroner Ross C. Wilson, Probation Officer A. A. Powers, Patrolman Chester L. Norton and Night Patrolman Lee Hoffman and Hardy Goodlin.

Rumors are around that several other county officials are to be questioned, but their names have not yet been given out.

Capital Stock of Lighting Company In Large Increase

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 29.—One of California's largest capitalization increases of the year was recorded here today when the Pacific Lighting corporation of San Francisco filed papers with the secretary of state jumping its capital stock from 20 million dollar to 100 million dollars.

Because of the indignant feminine outcry against the police order prohibiting women from wearing dresses which ended more than a foot above the ground, the order has been modified to 14 inches above the ground. The new order will be effective January 15.

Good references required

YOU would not like to hire anyone without a good reference.

Why not extend the same plan to the servants you buy for your home—the servants that sweep your floors, that wash and iron your clothes—that play music for you—that feed your family?

You can buy such servants—vacuum cleaners, washers and ironers, phonographs and food—with or without references. When they are advertised, they are vouched for by a responsible person—the merchant or manufacturer. You can buy them with confidence—knowing that they must live up to their references.

That's why it pays you to read the advertisements. Through advertising you learn not only what is good, but what is trustworthy.
